

Cryptocarya laevigata (Glossy Laurel)

This tree is usually a rainforest understory plant. Small, cream, scented flowers form on panicles from October to December. The fruit is an orange or red drupe, 15 mm in diameter. The single woody seed is pointed and prominently ribbed, The fruit is ripe from to January to May. Leaves are alternate, glossy, paler below, to 12cm long. Described as one of the best rainforest shrubs.

Type: Small Tree to 6m
Aspect: Shade
Soil: Well-drained
Habitat: Dry Sclerophyll

Special features:

- Attracts –
 - Birds
- Fragrant Flowers
- Screening Plant