

Glochidion ferdinandi (Buttonwood, Cheese Tree)

Small tree in coastal rainforests. Fast growing with pseudo-compound glossy green leaves to 10cm long, insignificant yellowish flowers and reddish-pink 20mm fruit shaped like tiny pumpkins that attract fruit eating birds. Good shade tree though sometimes defoliated by caterpillars.

Type: Tree to 10m
Aspect: Full/filtered sun
Soil: Moist, well-drained
Habitat: Adaptable

Special features:

- Attracts –
 - Birds
 - Butterflies
- Clay Tolerant
- Drought Tolerant
- Creek Species
- Shade Tree