

Pandorea pandorana (Wonga Vine)

Vigorous woody climbing vine in western areas. 20mm whitish to pale pink sweet-smelling flowers, winter to spring. Inflated seed capsules to 6cm x 20mm, with papery seeds. The wood was used as in making spears for woomeras in the Central and Western deserts. It has glossy green leaves arranged oppositely along the stem. Pruning is necessary to control the quick-growing plant which can overwhelm other plants in the garden.
